MARKET STALLS

d100 Description

- A female dwarf butcher selling meat of a dragon hatchling. Upon closer inspection it is revealed to be the carcass of a kobold.
- A gnome woman selling pet Mimics shaped like small household items. Upon inspection you see one of the cages is open.
- A half-elf man selling hand carved dice, 3 sometimes he plays a few (unfair) games for coin with curious shoppers.
 - Two halfling brothers selling vegetables,
- 4 your eye is drawn to peculiar roots seemingly from a far off country.
- An old human lady pushing a cart filled with porcelain cats painted in different motifs, she claims they protect people from evil.
- A gnome man running a stall selling precious gemstones, both polished and unpolished. 2 heavy armored dwarves guard the stall.
- An elf woman selling scented oils which calms the nerves and makes you sleep better.
- A tiefling woman selling silks and cloths of all colors. She gives (unwanted) fashion advice to whomever walks by.
- A recruitment stall for an adventuring guild, 9 two humans are handing out pamphlets, a dwarf is shouting the perks of joining.
- A dragonborn man selling enchanted torches that give off light in various colors and with adjustable brightness.
- An old gnome woman selling herbs and tinctures for healing and cooking purposes. The sign also says 'poison' in thieves cant.
- A young elf man selling flowers, small plants and saplings of trees. A lot of young women swarm around him.
- A tiefling man and human man selling high quality paper and blank books.
- A halfling woman selling make-up, she is currently in the process of demonstrating her products on a startled passerby
- A half-orc man selling coal from the local mines, he claims it comes from the deepest mineshaft and thus burns hotter than any other
 - A family of halflings selling fresh
- strawberries, they are a delicacy known well amongst the locals.
- A tiefling behind a stall that is completely empty except for a red velvet pillow, on top of the pillow rests a jet black stone.
- A stall run by a red dragonborn man and a halfling woman selling home baked cookies and cakes.

d100 Description

- A small family of humans running a vegetable stall. They sell non-seasonal vegetables, grown from their green house.
- An elf woman selling spices from the east. A 20 favorite amongst locals is 'Dragon's Claw', it makes for a great addition to dark meats.
- A half-elf man selling wooden canes carved to resemble animals. The man has a pet snake coiled around his arm.
- A gnome man pulling a small display cart laden with portrait drawings, 2 stools and an easel.
- A blonde elf woman selling glass

 23 snowglobes. In them are displayed carved models of monuments within the city
- A dark skinned dwarf man selling unrefined iron, tin and copper.
- A tall gnome man runs a stall selling nautical instruments and way finding equipment.
- A blue skinned tiefling woman in gypsy styled garments sits behind a table, reading
- hands and cards.

 A stall with an old human man selling roasted nuts
- A family of humans selling dairy products
- from their farm. The smell of the cheeses is sharp and fills the air.
- A human and two dragonborn men selling freshly caught fish.
- A half-orc hunter selling parts of deer he 30 shot the day before. It is busy at the stall and the meat is being sold in an auction.
- A gnome woman selling wooden and metal spinning tops from a small cart.
 - A half-elf woman selling inks and quills.
- 32 She has feathers woven in her hair and ink stained hands.
- Three young children with a rickety cart polishing shoes. Upon inspection you see a 4th kid attempting to steal from the customers.
- A pair of gnomes selling blue carrots. If 34 stewed and eaten the carrots will make you see better for a limited time.
- A dwarf man dressed in a comically over 35 the top miner's outfit selling realistic looking candy rocks and gemstones.
- A human man selling crates and boxes of dark oak wood. Supposedly the wood is resistant to fire and flames.
- A family of halflings runs a large stall filled with breads. They also make fresh sandwiches, all the ingredients are from the market.

MARKET STALLS

d100 Description

- A middle-aged human man pushing a cart filled with cabbages. They are severely overpriced but he seems to be turning a profit.
- An elf woman selling bottled spring water. It is not cooled but it is icy cold to the touch.
- Two dragonborn women selling brightly 40 colored kites in different shapes and sizes. A dragon shaped kite flies above the stall.
- A tan human woman selling gloves made of exotic leathers. Currently expertly cutting some grey leather with a thin sharp knife.
- An elf woman selling 3 types of seasonal wine she taps from barrels into bottles.
- A dwarf woman next to a small cart with a massage table, as you walk past she swiftly corrects the neck of a human man.
- An extravagant human woman selling hats and scarves, as you walk by you smell her perfume, a strong flower scent.
- A gnome man selling a few large, freshly caught swordfish he claimed he caught using a live chicken as bait.
- A dragonborn woman selling beeswax prayer candles for various deities.
- A human woman selling caged birds. Next to carrier pigeons and ravens she sells brightly colored parakeets and canaries.
- A half-orc woman with a large strawbedded pen filled with young healthy looking calves and a few older cows.
- A halfling family selling jams and jellies made from local fruits.
- Two half-elf brothers selling different flavors 50 of tea. The younger brother sells a special hallucinogenic tea secretly on the side
- A human woman selling sowing equipment.

 Her most expensive items are adamantine sowing needles and special spidersilk
- A red skinned tiefling man selling fireworks.

 Anything from sparklers and flares to rockets.
- A firbolg man with long curly hair selling soap and hair products. The smell of citrus and mint fills the air around the stall.
- A pretty well dressed kobold boy trying to 54 sell polished rocks stalled out on an upside down crate.
- Two young gnome women selling 55 handcrafted dresses and skirts in gnome and halfling sizes
- A rough looking male dwarf adventurer selling scavenged animal parts, armor and weapons.

d100 Description

- A tiefling woman selling vegetable curries 57 made on the spot. She serves them in large hollowed-out coconut bowls.
- A gnome man with a small cart filled with music boxes. As you try them, one of them plays the anthem of a rebel organization.
- Two human men selling apples and apple cider from their local orchard.
- A young firbolg woman selling handmade jewelry made mainly from wood and semiprecious stone
- 61 A pair of halflings selling potatoes and yams.
- A gnome man selling truffles from a cart pulled by his pet pig.
- A group of 3 humans selling clams and crawfish. One of them is a sorcerer, on a sale he freezes the produce in a thin layer of ice.
- A scruffy goblin woman selling bundled packets of vegetable peels, bones and meat scraps to make soup from.
- A dragonborn woman selling sweet candy 65 made from a poisonous cactus. The candy itself is harmless but sales seem slow.
- A human man trying to pass off pink bananas as magical fruits, upon inspection they are regular bananas painted pink.
- A male half-orc tailor selling cloth shirts and offering repairs for any type of clothing. His big hands work with astounding precision.
- A male human sorcerer at a small stall 68 offering to remove a memory for gold, the price of the service depends on the memory.
- A group of humans and halflings selling fruits and vegetables from their homestead.
- A halfling pulling a cart with an oven on it selling smoked salmon. The thin wisp of smoke coming from the oven smells delicious
- A human man and woman selling poultry and eggs.
- A halfling woman selling fabrics on rolls used for furniture and drapes.
- A gnome man selling pipes and different flavors of tobacco from a small stall.
- A family of dwarves selling craftsmen tools and iron nails. They also offer simple repairs for most items on the side.
- A human man pulling a small cart with 55 books from his faith, he also sells reading glasses.
- A dwarf man wearing a keg on his back from which he taps a potent energizing alcoholic beverage into small shot glasses.

MARKET STALLS

d100 Description

- A gnome woman selling various shapes and sizes of glass vials and a few (healing) potions.
- A half-elf man selling city maps from a stand. He offers advice on the best taverns and on which places to avoid.
- An elf woman selling different types of finely crafted arrows. She has a keen eye for people who try to steal from her.
- 80 An old dragonborn woman selling white tablecloths and doilies.
- A human man selling honey he harvested from his own beehives.
- A suntanned dwarf man selling coconuts and other tropical fruits.
- A halfling family selling different types of wheat and flour.
- A small group of goliaths selling wooden planks and lumber.
- An old gnome man selling various books from an overladen stall.
- A young human girl and a young tiefling boy selling lemonade from a makeshift stand.
- An elf woman and halfling man selling homemade perfumes. They have various flower, fruity and wood scents on display.
- A family of gnomes selling different types of farm animal meats. They also sell hot sausages with a spiced tomato based sauce.
- A young firbolg woman selling seeds for various vegetables and flowers.

d100 Description

- A human man selling various tanned leathers and hides from common farm animals.
- A dwarf man selling woolen socks with 91 various patterns. He claims it is impossible to lose one sock from the pair.
- A couple of halflings selling olives and olive 92 oil. Their specialty is a serving of garlic olives which most customers eat at the stall.
- A goliath woman selling carved stone 93 statues and keepsakes of various deities and their symbols.
- An old elf man selling a couple of wands 94 and staffs inlaid with crushed gemstones and semi-precious stones.
- A dwarf woman selling knives and daggers she forged herself. She also sharpens dull blades for a small fee.
- A gnome man with a large reclining chair on wheels offering dentist services. The patients seem to leave in quite some pain.
- A half-orc woman selling hunting traps for various types of prey.
- A closed red tent, the sign reads: 'Auntie Tina's'. Upon entering you meet a female gnome, she offers advice for relationship trouble
- A human boy and a goblin man selling bags of stinky mulch and fertilizer for gardens.
- A half-orc man selling mining and lumbering 100 equipment. The pickaxes and axes are made of a dark tinted steel.

MARKET STALLS